TEXT

Read the text and translate:

Isaak Newton

Sir Isaac Newton was often so deeply interested in difficult problems that he became quite absent-minded. One day a gentleman came to see him, but was told that Sir Isaac was busy in his study and that nobody was allowed to disturb him

As it was dinner-time, the visitor sat down in the dinner-room to wait for the scientist. The servant came in and placed on the table a boiled chicken under a cover. The gentleman, feeling hungry, ate the chicken, and covering up the skeleton, asked the servant to prepare another one for his master.

Before the second chicken was ready, however, the scientist entered the room, apologizing for his delay. Then he added: "As I fell rather tired and hungry, I hope you will excuse me a little longer, while I take my dinner, and then I will be at your service". With these words he lifted the cover, and without emotion turned round to the gentleman and said: see what a strange set we scientists are! I quite forgot that I had dined already".

At this moment the servant brought in the other chicken. The visitor explained how matters stood. After a hearty laugh, the hungry scientist sat down to dine.

Read the text and translate:

The great painter Sir James Thornhill was employed for decorating the interior of the dome of St. Paul's in London. One day he stepped back on the scaffolding to see how his work looked at a distance. His servant, who was standing near, was terrified to see him within some inches of the edge of the scaffolding. At the last movement backwards he would be down and dashed to pieces on the pavement. How could he be warned of this danger? If the servant cried out he would probably in his alarm take a fatal step.

So the man threw a pot of paint over the piece of work the painter was just admiring. Sir James in a rage rushed forward to punish him. Thus his life was saved. On finding out why the servant had spoilt his painting. Sir James was glad to reward him instead of punishing him.
